BYRD AND HIS "AMERICA" SET FORTH FOR EUROPE

WITH CREW OF FOUR, PLANE HEADS OVER ATLANTIC.

PASS NEWFOUNDLAND

Start From Roosevelt Field Is Made at Dawn.—Trouble With Compasses Is Overcome.

Roosevelt Field, June 29.—The automatic radio signals of the America, Commander Richard E. Byrd's tri-motored Fokker monoplane, were heard clearly at 3 o'clock Eastern time this afternoon by the steamer Mauretania, but the steamer was unable to get any reply when it tried to signal the plane, it was reported in a radio dispatch to the American Transoceanic Co.

The plane was past Avalon peninsula, Novia Scotia, and over the open sea.

Halifax, June 29.—An airplane believed to be the "America" was sighted at St. Pierre, Miquelon Island, off the southern coast of Newfoundland, this afternoon.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 29.—Disdainful of fog and triumphant over erring compasses, Commander Richard Byrd and his crew of three in the monoplane America sped north and east across Nova Scotia this afternoon, nearing the start of the long journey across the open Atlantic to Ireland.

The tri-motored Fokker plane was keeping a steady pace of well over 100 miles an hour, cabled reports to the United Press from Nova Scotia indicated.

The plane seemed to be sticking strictly on its course and it was assumed the compass variation had been stopped, when steel handled auxiliary gasoline cans, which had exerted a magnetic attraction on the compass needles, were tossed overboard after the fuel they held was pumped into the main tanks of the plane.

Takes Air at 5:24.

The America took the air from Roosevelt Field at 5:24 a. m., eastern daylight saving time (3:24 Maryville time).

The America was completely fueled with fifty-four gallons of oil, eighteen for each of the three motors, and 1,300 gallons of gasoline.

Food supplies were the last of the stores to be put aboard. They consisted of four roast chickens, four chicken sandwiches, four quarts of hot coffee in Thermos bottles, four ham and cheese sandwiches and five gallons of drinking water.

Lieut. George C. Noville, co-pilot and radio engineer of the America, came to the field with T. H. Kinkade, Wright motor expert, for a final check-up of the big monoplane.

Twice before in the last week a take-off had been imminent.

Came As A Surprise.

At 1:30 o'clock this morning Commander Byrd ordered the crew of the monoplane to stand by for a 4 o'clock hop-off for Paris.

Commander Byrd's decision to start this morning was reached after belated reports from ships at sea told of a general improvement in weather conditions over the Atlantic.

There appeared no general areas of bad weather, although there were local conditions of unfavorable weather, Dr. James A. Kimball, meteorologist at the weather bureau, reported.

"Commander Byrd has been apprised of the fact he will encounter some fog, showers and low clouds," Dr. Kimball said. "There appears no prospect of any improvement over conditions as they are now and, rather than wait indefinitely, he has decided to go."

Byrd's announcement came as a surprise to his crew. T. Harold Kinkade, motor expert for the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, was called out of bed this morning after he had been told before retiring there was no chance for a hop-off today. About 11 o'clock last night Byrd had told reporters the weather reports appeared so unfavorable a take-off today would be impossible.

New York City is building a church 23 stories high. They are evidently planning to take several steps heavenward. Some of the congregation may get high enough to look over into the Promised Land.

Son Born Friday to Slain Man's Widow

Mrs. Dewey Leonard Names Child Dewey, Jr., After Father Killed On March 2.

A son was born Friday night of last week at Burlington Junction to Mrs. Elizabeth Leonard, widow of Dewey Leonard, who was shot and killed on March 2 by Tom Ashbrook, now at liberty on bond pending an appeal of his sentence of forty years in the Missouri penitentiary. The child weighed eleven and one-half pounds, and has been christened Dewey, jr.

Mrs. Leonard has two other small children, both girls. Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Leonard has been making her home with her mother in Cleveland, a west suburb of Burlington Junction.

Both mother and child are doing well.

1,000 ATTEND CATTLE SALE

BELLOWS' BEST OFFERING GOES TO OKLAHOMA FOR $550.

CHEAPEST BULL $180

Six Sires Sold By 2:30 O'Clock Today; Six States Represented Among Bidders.

The largest crowd assembled there in the last five years nearly packed the pavilion of Bellows Brothers, at Parkdale Farm, today. Dale Bellows estimated nearly a thousand persons were gathered in the pavilion, which he said would hold 1,200.

An Oklahoman bought the best offering of the sale, Supreme Mason, a roan bull, calved July 31, 1924, a son of Fair Beauty and Village Supreme. King C. Ridge, of Hominy, Okla., bid $550 to take the bull to his 2,400-acre Oklahoma ranch.

Supreme Mason was the first animal put on the auction block, and the bids received by Colonels Kraschel, Milne and Hosmer, started at $200 and soared to $550. Supreme Mason is a brother of Supreme Commander, owned by Frank Baker of Kansas City, which brought $1,000, and also a brother of Supreme Archer, used on the Sni-A-Bar farm, founded by Colonel William Rockhill Nelson.

Six bulls had been sold by 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and the lowest price for which a bull sold was $180. This price was paid by Shivers and Sons of Knoxville, Ia., for Supreme Fashion, a roan bull, calved June 15, 1926, of the Victoria strain.

Another Oklahoman, Homer Luttrell, also of Hominy, broke into the bidding when he purchased the second bull offered, Parkdale Heir, a red bull calved July 3, 1926. He paid $360 for the animale, which is a son of Maxwalton Baron and Lady Douglas 14th.

The other bulls sold by 2:30 o'clock:

Supreme Hero, a roan, calved January 9, 1926, of the Augusta strain, sold for $315 to George Gruis of Greenfield, Ia.

Supreme Mark, a roan bull, calved March 12, 1926, the first calf sired by Supreme King, was sold to Cornett and Hoskins of Linneus, Mo., for $235. Supreme Mark is of the Sweetheart family.

Supreme Renown, a dark roan, calved January 29, 1926, a son of Sultan Laird, was sold to J. E. Mahoney of Palmira, Neb., for $190.

Fifty animals, including twelve bulls, were to be put on the block this after-

A COMMUNITY PAYS TRIBUTE

MARYVILLE UNITES IN SERVICES FOR FATHER ANSELM.

BODY TO CONCEPTION

More Elaborate Rites to Be Held Tomorrow.—Spiritual Adviser for Two Generations.

Last tributes from former parishoners and a large number of other friends were paid this morning to the Rev. Anselm Ineichen, for nearly fifty years a priest and for forty-seven years of that time a minister to the religious needs of Maryville Catholics.

Services were held this morning at St. Francis Hospital, with a Requiem High Mass sung by the choir of the sisters of St. Francis, to whom Father Anselm had been chaplain for the last fourteen years. The services was conducted by the Rev. Father Pius, who succeeds Father Anselm as chaplain and who had been closely associated with him since they crossed to the United States together from Switzerland in 1873.

After the Mass, Father Pius offered a personal tribute to his deceased companion, testifying to his high character and his religious zeal.

Services Largely Attended.

At 9 o'clock a Solemn Requiem High Mass was sung at St. Mary's Church which Father Anselm served for thirty-three years. This service was largely attended, with a liberal representation of the veteran priest's friends both within and outside the parish.

A Solemn Requiem High Mass differs from the Requiem High Mass in that at least three priests take part in the rites. The Mass was said by the Rev. Father Richard Felix, present pastor of St. Mary's. Father Joseph of Conception Abbey was deacon, Father

CHICAGO FACES 2 STRIKES; NO TRANSPORTATION

Unless Demands Of Carmen Are Met, General Strike Is Probable, At Once.

Chicago, June 29.—Paralysis of the City's transportation means—surface cars, L trains and motor traffic—appeared likely today through two threatened strikes.

Officials of the carmen's union today will present wage ultimatums to officials of the street railways demanding that some concession be given the unions' demands.

In the event of refusal, a strike conference which probably will end with the general strike call, will be arranged.

Added to this came the announcement that gasoline filling station attendants had voted to strike unless their demands for wage increases from $140 to $150 a month were met.

Third Plane to Brave Atlantic.

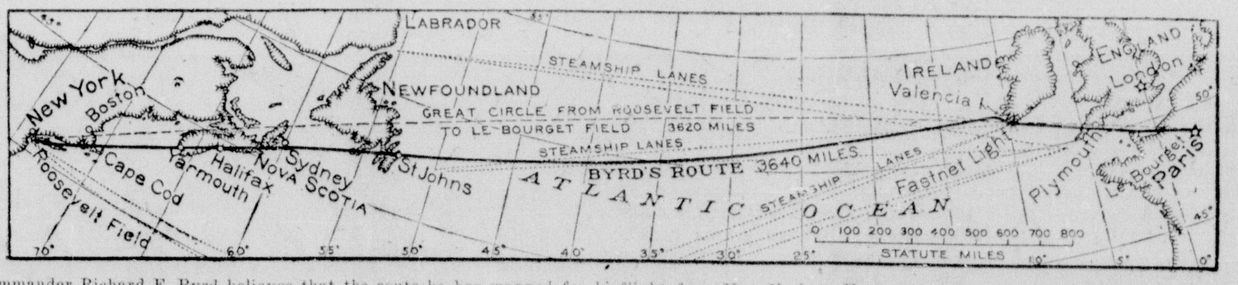
Byrd's Route Ideal for Future Trans-Alantic Air Lines



Commander Richard E. Byrd believes that the route he has mapped for hisflight from New York to Europe is the aerial path which future trans-Atlantic air services will follow. He and representatives of the National Geo-graphic Society who collaborated with him in charting it consider it the ideal airplane lane between the old and the new conotinents largely becauseit can be flown by dead reckoning from St. Johns, Newfoundland, to Valencia Island, Ireland. Observe that it is only 20 miles longer than the greatcircle route which is a direct line from New York to the metropolis on the Seine.

COMPANY WILL ABANDON WELL

BUT QUITMAN GROUP EXPECTS TO DRILL AGAIN.

TO ISSUE STOCK SOON

Amount Needed Not Known Until Driller Is Procured; Would Keep George Rose.

Location No. 2 of the Quitman Oil and Gas Company, situated on the Joe Carden farm, northwest of Maryville, has been abandoned, Van Goslee, of Skidmore, president of the board of directors, said today. The decision was made last night at a meeting of the board of Skidmore.

With the decision to abandon this well, Mr. Goslee said the company would drill a new oil well. He said members of the company are now arranging to put stock on the market to effect the project. Just how much will be needed is not known. Mr. Goslee said, as it will depend upon the contract with a driller.

He was uncertain whether or not George Rose, who has drilled location No. 2 to a depth of 1,400 feet, would be retained to drill the new well, but said the company would try to get Mr. Rose to do the work.

Arrive From South Dakota.

Judge and Mrs. W. A. Krause of Flandreau, S. D., arrived in Maryville this afternoon to visit their son, Chester Krause, and Mrs. Krause and their new granddaughter, Kathryn Lelia Krause. They made the trip in their automobile.

C. B. Yeo motored to Kansas City this morning and from there will drive to Iola, Kan., on business. He will return the first of next week.

ARMY FLIERS REACH HAWAII IN LONGEST ALL-WATER HOP

"BIRD OF PARADISE" LANDS AT 9:01, PACIFIC TIME.

ARRIVAL A SURPRISE

Big Plane Misses Landing Directions And Eludes Welcoming Squadron. In 25 Hours, 51 Minutes. —An Epic Dash.

Wheeler Field, Honolulu, June 29.—The United States Army's great green monoplane, "Bird of Paradise," roared out of a semi-tropic dawn today and came to rest on Hawaiian soil at 6.31 a. m., Honolulu time, 9:01 Pacific time.

The ship had missed its landing directions, which explained the delay in estimated time of arrival.

The plane made a perfect landing, with Lieut. Lester Maitland at the controls.

The giant Fokker taxied to the reviewing stand, amid the cheers of thousands—Americans, Hawaiians, Orientals.

The epic dash of 2,408 miles over the open sea had been achieved in 25 hours and 51 minutes elapsed time. The plane left Oakland Airport at San Leandro Bay at 7:10 a. m. yesterday, Pacific time.

The arrival was a complete and tremendous surprise. The "Bird of Paradise" had eluded the squadron of scout planes which had been searching over Motokai channel for hours.

The ship was fifty feet from the ground before the onlokers realized it had arrived. It appeared suddenly from a curtain of light mist.

Landing Unexpected.

The landing time was unofficial, due to the almost instant and totally unheralded arrival.

Before touching the ground, the great ship rose slightly, skirted the field in a semi-circle and taxied to perfect position directly in front of the reviewing stand. A battalion of troops immediately surrounded it.

Lieutenants Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, two weary young men, stepped from the plane without assistance and glanced back to the east, toward the airway they had blazed across the Pacific. They stepped then to the reviewing stand, where the governor of Hawaii and the commanding officer of the army post greeted them and decorated them with floral leis.

Maitland's first words to Governor Farrington were:

"I certainly am glad to be here."

ERNIE SMITH TO MAKE NEW PACIFIC TRY

San Francisco, June 29. — Captain Ernie Smith's slim Travelair, monoplane, which failed at the crucial moment yesterday in an effort to race the army's tri-motored Fokker plane, "Bird of Paradise," to Hawaii, will make another attempt within the next two days.

A SHAKEUP IN HOSPITAL NO. 3

ANNOUNCES CHANGES AT NEVADA INSTITUTION.

PRISON BOARD SILENT

Refuses to Give Out Penitentiary's Financial Condition—Alleged to Owe $300,000 to $400,000.

(By United Press)

Nevada, Mo., June 29.—A shake-up in state hospital No. 3 has come, according to an announcement by W. P. Fulkerson, of St. Joseph, chairman of the state eleemosynary board, under whose direction an audit of the hospital is being made.

Mr. Fulkerson today said there had not been anything of a questionable nature except extravagance.

"We are going to check every department thoroughly and it may require two weeks to do the work," he said.

"We are going to decrease the army of employes so we can have money enough to feed and care for the patients."

Guard Financial Condition.

Jefferson City, June 29.—The Enloe Prison board today threw a cloak of secrecy about the financial condition of the penitentiary and refused to make public information regarding accounts owed by the penitentiary proper and the industries department as of June 1.

This is the first time in the history of the state, so far as is known, that such a policy has been adopted by a state institution.

After a series of delays the board yesterday definitely refused to furnish information regarding the financial condition of the institution as to June 1.

The request for the information again was made today with the result that it was not forthcoming.

The Enloe board was found guilty of gross mismanagement, incompetence, extravagance and favoritism by the recent Senate investigating committee.

However, when six Democratic senators bolted their party caucus the board was confirmed by a bare margin.

Owes $300,000 to $400,000.

Although the prison board refused to make public the finance information it was learned the penitentiary proper owed between $350,000 and $400,000 on June 1.

At the same time the prison industries, regarded as the breadwinner of the institution owed a large sum, but definite information is lacking.

It was learned that June 1 the board had not paid many of its creditors since January.

Armour and Company of Kansas City, which has the meat contract for the prison had an unpaid account of approximately $70,000 June 1.

Enloe Still on Bond.

Persons who have observed the operation of the penitentiary during the last two years estimated that if the Enloe board should continue at the present rate it will face a deficit of $750,000 to $1,000,000 at the close of 1928.

It was reported from a reliable source several weeks ago that Gov. Sam A. Baker planned to remove Dr. Cortez F. Enloe as penal director July 1, and also remove William B. McGregor, farms commissioner, as a board member.

However, there are indications now that the governor has changed his plan and that Dr. Enloe will not retire from the board July 1.

Leslie Rudolph, warden, and Thomas B. Speed Mosby, paroles and pardons commissioners, are the other members of the board.

The "ask me another" fad will yet qualify millions for employment by Thomas A. Edison.

Would Give Britain Superiority Over U. S.

Naval Limitations Conference Discusses Ratio for Cruisers, Destroyers and Submarines.

Geneva, June 29.—A 6-5-4 ratio for cruisers, destroyers and submarines, with Great Britain superior to the United States, was discussed unofficially in naval limitations conference circles today.

The suggestion was not made to the American delegation even in the form of gossip.

It was regarded as more of a hope than an expectation. It was thought first that the United States would not accept anything less than equality with Great Britain, even if the idea of elevating Japan's auxiliary strength to four-fifths of America's instead of three-fifths as in case of battleships was agreed to.

It seems from the railway gossip being heard on the street corner that we are to soon have better railroad accommodations over the Wabash. It is said the daylight local trains are to be put back into service again. This will be good news to the traveling public as we were very greatly inconvenienced as it is now.

Indian Wooing Different, But It Works, Says Brave Here Today

"You may think wooing and marriage customs queer, but our hold. We never have divorces," declared Clarence Sousa, 19, full blooded Osage Indian, who was in Maryville today attending the Bellows Stock sale. He is foreman for K. C. Ridge Hominy, Okla., who also came up to attend the sale, together with Homer Lutteell and Joe Morrell, other Oklahomans.

"One thing about Indians, they are strict with their children," said Mr. Ridge.

The terms "necking" and "sepooning" are absent from the vocabularies, as well as from the actions of Indians, both visitors agreed.

"It is true that many of the Indians of Oklahoma cling to their own customs, and the Osages are among the most strict," Mr. Ridge said.

The "wooing" in Indian marriages is done by the parents.

It lasts only a few days, but it is prolific. The parents of "his" people come with gifts. They prepare food at a camp close to the house of the girl's family. In case the girl's family is willing, the members partake of a four-day feast that the man's family takes to the girl's home.

The girl's family shoot a gun when they start to take her to the bridegroom. The man's family rush to meet her people, and an array of gifts in the form of carriages or cars go to the first who arrive. When they arrive at the camp of the bridegroom, two squaws take the girl, in a blanket, and place her beside the bridegroom. Of course there are many other steps in the ceremony but this is the general idea, Mr. Ridge declared.

"Once in a while if the girl doesn't like the man she runs him off," Mr. Ridge said.

"All the feather and warpaint is put on just for effect," Sousa declared. "The Indians do that mostly for dances and celebrations.

"It is hard to tell the men from the women. Many of them shave their heads except for a little spot on top, but I was coming here so I let mine grow. 'When in Rome do as the Romans do,'" the boy explained.

"I got homesick when I arrived here last night, so I put on by big hat and my boots and now I feel all right," he continued.

A Community Pays Tribute

Odilo of Conception Junction was subdeacon, and Father Lawrence, of Leavenworth, Kan., was master of ceremonies. All these priests had served the parish here.

Other visiting clergy included Father Ambrose of Clyde, Father Pius, and Father Niemann, pastor of St. Patrick's Church here.

Pallbearers were Nick Sturm, Mike Sturm, Aaron Felix of St. Joseph, Noah Thompson, Anselm Schumacher and Joe Wilmes.

Some of those present had been married by Father Anselm, had had their children christened by him, then had seen them marry also and bring the grandchildren to the same spiritual adviser.

History of Parish Reviewed.

Following the reception of the body, the Mass and the Absolution, the Rev. Father Felix gave a sermon in which he reviewed the history of St. Mary's parish and the important part in its development played by Father Anselm.

Immediately after the services here, the body was taken to the Benedictine Abbey at Conception, where it was placed in the Pieta Chapel, in the vestibule of the Abbey Church, where a vigil will be kept until tomorrow morning by the members of the community.

The services at Conception will be much more elaborate than those held here. At 8 o'clock tomorrow morning the body will be carried in procession from the chapel to the high altar. The Abbey choir will chant the special Matins and Lauds provided for such occasions. The chants will be followed by a Solemn Requiem High Mass conducted by the Rt. Rev. Abbot Philip and several other priests assisting.

After the services in the Abbey Church, the body will be carried again in procession to St. Columba's cemetery, the burial place set aside for members of the priesthood, where it will be laid beside those of Father Martin and Father John, who were ordained at the same time as Father Anselm.

Highest Praise Is Given Father Anselm

Father Richard Tells of Work of "Father of St. Mary's" at Funeral Today.

Highest praise for the life work of Father Anselm Ineichen, practically all of it done in Maryville, was expressed by the Rev. Father Richard Felix at the funeral services held for Father Anselm at St. Mary's Church this morning.

Father Anselm had been termed the "Father of St. Mary's" because most of the development of the parish took place during the thirty-three years he labored, first as assistant and then as pastor.

Father Felix traced the growth of corporate Catholic life in Nodoway county from its beginning in 1856, when the Rev. James Power and a band of Irish immigrated from Reading, Pa., settled on the prairies which only a few years before had been the hunting grounds of the Toways, Sacs, Foxes and Pottawatomies.

There were some Catholics in and around Maryville at that time, but it was not until 1858 that their spiritual wants were attended to by the zealous missionary who established his colony at what is now Conception.

A church was built at Conception and dedicated June 9, 1860. Then the Immaculate Conception Church was erected here and dedicated on the second Sunday in October, 1860. These were the first houses of religious worship of any kind in Nodaway county, it was said.

The old structure here suffered from despoilers during the Civil War, but it continued to serve until 1879, when it was almost completely destroyed by a storm.

Father Power remained until 1859, when he was appointed to the Cathedral of St. Joseph, and the Rev. Constantine Hergenroether came here. A year later he was succeeded by the Rev. Joseph Seybold, who was himself succeeded soon afterward by the Rev. Father Philip, who built the first parish residence and started a parish school.

The Benedictine Fathers of Conception assumed charge of the parish on September 18, 1873, and Father Adelhelm became pastor. In 1877 the new church was begun, and the foundation and basement were completed and dedicated on the second Sunday in October 1879. In June, 1881, when Father Adelhelm resigned his post to found a Benedictine Monastery on the Pacific coast, he was succeeded by his young assistant, Father Anselm.

Father Anselm had to face at the very start a division in his congregation, a new parish being started by the Rev. Daniel Pembroke.

Despite the fact that it had little more than a basement for a church and weighted down with debt, the congregation, under the leadership of Father Anselm, took new inspiration, and St. Mary's as it is today, was completed and formally opened for divine services in June, 1887.

At the golden jubilee of the parish in 1908, the whole building was renovated and redecorated and several stained glass windows were contributed.

In 1912 a new parish school was constructed. It contains also living quarters for the sisters.

After having completed the church, provided a suitable home for the priest, erecting a new school, purchasing a cemetery and establishing a powerful parochial and social life in the hearts of his parishioners, Father Anselm was relieved from the cares and burdens of his pastorate in 1913. Since that time, after a visit to Rome, upon which he had an audience with Pope Leo, he had been chaplain at the Hospital, which he was a motivating force in establishing here.

Upon his return to Maryville from Rome in 1913, when he was a delegate to the general Chapter of the Benedictine Order in that city, also paying a visit to his old home in Lucerne, Switzerland, a basket dinner was given in his honor at St. Mary's Church. It was attended by members of the church and many protestant friends. The affair was given on Sunday, Nov. 2, 1913, and Augustus Romasser presided as toastmaster. He welcomed Father Anselm back and a purse of $100 in gold was given the priest on behalf of his friends outside of the church.

Judge W. C. Ellison and W. A. Blagg made short addresses, referring to the love and esteem in which Father Anselm was held by the people outside of the church. Father Anselm made a short talk and said that on his entire trip of 5,000 miles he had seen many beautiful scenes, but that none of them were as beautiful and meant so much to him as did the one at the basket dinner.

Wallace of Indianapolis, Ind. The single ring service was read by the Rev. R. E. Musgrave of the First Christian Church in the living room of the Eckert home, 1204 North Main street. Miss Pauline Eckert attended her sister as bridesmaid, and her brother, Mr. Tom Eckert, was best man. The bride wore a gown of light blue crepe Romaine and lace with slippers and hose in corresponding shades. She carried a bouquet of Columbia roses and achillea. Following the ceremony a 1 o'clock luncheon for members of the immediate families was served in the dining room. A color scheme of pink and white prevailed in the appointments. The table decorations consisted of the wedding cake, which centered the table, and shell pink and silver candles, tied with pink tulle, in crystal holders. Kansas Governor to Call a Conference

Flood Prevention And Water Conservation Will Be Discussed; Is Initial Step.

Topeka, Kan., June 29.—Governor Ben F. Paulen of Kansas probably will call a state-wide conference to discuss flood prevention and water conservation, it was announced today.

Initial steps will be taken at an early date to place Kansas in the lead in the proposed drive to have federal aid in flood prevention programs in the Mississippi valley.

The governor announced today that such steps are contemplated following the return of H. H. Woodring, Neodesha banker, who was one of the delegates at the national flood control congress recently held in Chicago.

Woodring suggested a state conference to speed up flood control work in this state and urged at the same time that the matter of water conservation for agricultural benefits be considered.

An Honest Fisherman Located in Nebraska

Man Pays Fine Before Charges Are Filed Against Him; Judge Is Puzzled.

Fremont, Neb., June 29.—The story of an honest fisherman who pays his fine first before any charges are even filed against him was told recently by Judge Waldo Wintersteen.

Judge Wintersteen received a telegraphed check from Virney Johnson of Omaha for $11.80, and not knowing what the check was for, wired the Omaha man asking why he sent the check.

A telegram in reply stated the check was for catching a bass of less than legal size in the Fremont lakes.

The judge is still somewhat puzzled as to why Johnson voluntarily wired the money. There was no charge on his records against the man.

Council Grove, Kan., June 29.—Samuel Klein of Chicago was killed and his father, Morris Klein, was injured severely last night when the motor car in which they were attempting to clip seven hours fro mthe train time between Chicago and Los Angeles crashed into the side rail of a concrete culvert ten miles east of here on the Santa Fe trail.

The Kleins left Chicago at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, planning to cover the 2,440-mile route at a speed of 60 miles an hour and reach the Pacific Coast in time for breakfast Thursday.

The start of the race to the coast was made under the auspices of the American Automobile Association and checked at various points by A. A. A. officials.

Oklahoma Indians Among Bidders Here

Extensive Stock-Raisers Here to Buy Cattle.—Say Corn Looks Good in Southwest.

At least four of the men in Maryville today to attend the Bellows sale of purebred shorthorn cattle came here all the way from Oklahoma. Two of them are full blooded Indians, while a third is part Indian.

The Oklahomans came in two motor cars, one of which arrived this morning, while the other was expected this afternoon. The first party included K[illegible] Ridge, shorthorn breeder of Hominy, Okla., who has some Indian blood in his veins, Clarence Sousa, a 19-year old full-blooded Osage, and Homer Luttrell, also of Hominy.

Joe Morrell, another full-blooded Osage Indian, owner of a large cattle ranch at Fairfax, Okla., was expected to arrive by sale time.

Corn will be the chief crop of Oklahoma this year, Mr. Ridge said. The corn crop in his section of Oklahoma is in the roasting ear stage now and a big crop is expected, he added.

Wheat and oats were almost a failure this year, according to both Mr. Ridge and Mr. Luttrell. The oat crop is "no good" they declared, as there was so much wet weather this spring, followed by dry, hot days, that it "burned up" the oats and the wheat.

They followed the Red Star route to Maryville. It is in good shape, and "is the only route," they said.

Mr. Ridge, who owns a 2,400 acre ranch near Hominy, is enlarging a herd of Shorthorns. He now has sixty-five head and came here to pick up what "looks good to him." Mr. Ridge will have a sale at his ranch this fall, he said. The Indian youth, when asked what he did for Mr. Ridge, said, "I'm his foreman."

Mr. Luttrell said he was just starting in the pure blooded cattle business and was here to buy a bull for his herd. His land is scattered in small tracts near Hominy, but he is living on a 160-acre farm himself.

The fruit crop in Oklahoma is good this year, they said. Early peaches have been picked. Mr. Ridge said he had picked 250 bushels of peaches from his orchard to date. Conditions look good in Missouri, the Oklahomans said. When told the season here was retarded by excessive rains they replied they had faced the same situation in Oklahoma.

Mr. Luttrell said he noticed in particular many fine farms the other side of St. Joseph.

Oklahoma is developing fast, with many fine farms being built, overshadowing the average Missouri farm home, the visitors said. The cattle business in Oklahoma, especially the blooded cattle business, is on the upgrade, Mr. Ridge said, and prices are good at the present time.

POLITICS HAS NEW FACTOR

PROSPECTIVE CANDIDATES CONSIDER 'FEMININE APPEAL.'

'HER' VOTE VITAL IN '28

49 Per Cent Eligible Voters Women; If They Would Support One Man He'd Be Elected.

Washington, June 29.—Potential presidential candidates, in formulating convention bids as well as in looking forward to possible presidential campaigns, are giving serious though to what might be termped "feminine appeal," according to developments here recently.

It has become apparent that the woman vote in the 1928 election is going to be a vital factor, perhaps a decisive one. Even now, there is a campaign to get the woman vote out being carried on by the National League of Women Voters, a non-partisan organization, whose effort is merely to get the women to the polls.

There will be 28,500,000 women elegible to vote at the election next year. This number is 49 per cent of the total eligible voters. If women could center upon one candidate—which is not expected—they could elect him—or her.

'Thank You' Letter to Chamber of Commerce

Kansas City Trippers, Here Recently, Say That Visit Was An "Education."

C. E. Haterius, secretary of the Goodfellowship committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City, has written a letter of appreciation to Miss Catherine L. Tobin, acting secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, thanking Maryville in behalf of the trippers who visited here last week.

The letter follows:

"An expression of appreciation conveyed by the written word is totally inadequate. We are going to do the best we can with what we have. This is it! We want you and the good people of your city, and your officials, to know that we appreciate in the deepest manner possible the wonderful reception, the splendid courtesy and the excellent fellowship that we enjoyed with you on our recent Goodfellowship tour.

"We inform you that the trippers to a man declared this was the finest trip, the biggest receptions and the largest crowds ever to extend a welcoming hand to them in all these years of trade tripping. Put that feather in your hat!

"Our visit with you was an education. It revealed among various things, that we are more closely united than perhaps either of us heretofore contemplated. We want to go on now that we have fired this opening gun, and cement those ties more firmly in the future, and we know that you feel the same about it. We could not have come among you and have been treated the way we were if this were not so.

"So, now, assuring you of our profoundest gratitude, and thanking you, we look toward Northwestern Missouri as the mecca of the finest citizenry of this grand old state, and we are going to cast our eyes and, sometime, turn our cars in your general direction again. As for now, our wishes are—good luck, God bless you!

"Sincerely yours

"C. E. HATERIUS,

Secretary Goodfellowship Committee."

NEW CATCHER FOR COMETS

ORVILLE HECKER OF NISHNABOTNA SIGNS UP.

A GAME HERE ON 4TH

Union Star To Be Entertained Here On Monday After Encounter Sunday At Gentry.

When the umpire announces the battery for the Fourth of July baseball game here between Maryville and Union Star, he will call off the name of Orville Hecker as catcher.

Hecker comes here from Nishnabotna, Mo., as the newest member in the Comet line-up. He will report to the Comets Sunday when they play at Gentry. The singing of Hecker, who is an old hand at the game and considered one of the best back stops in Northwest Missouri, will mean the moving around some of the infield line-up.

It is expected that Tommy Tobin will move up to the second sack, and with Phil Tobin at shortstop will form a Tobin-to-Tobin combination.

Just who will start on the Mound Monday, the Fourth, has not definitely been announced, but the prospects are that Buhler will be the choice. Lefty Lewis is slated for mound duty against the Summa combination at Gentry.

The Sunday and holiday games bring Maryville against the best in the League. Union Star has been sailing along in second position, after being forced out of a tie for leadership by Stanberry. Gentry has been fighting for top position all year and is close to Hopkins in the percentage column.

With Hecker back of the rubber and Lewis and Buhler pitching the next two games, there will be Brennan at first, T. Tobin at second, Phil Tobin, shortstop, Tracy Lewis at third, Schultz, Search and Arthur in the outfield.

Hecker probably is known to some Maryville fans, he having played with Tarkio and Corning, Mo. He has been offered Western League contracts as regularly as the baseball season comes around.

He is farming this summer and will break in his "whip" in the Gentry contest.

Suzanne Makes Debut at "Pro" in England

Mystery Surrounds Opponent to Give Her "Hard Battle."—Believed Be German Player.

Henley, Eng., June 29.—"Service"—"Wham"—Fifteen-love."

And thus Suzanne Lenglen, without the "Mademoiselle" of amateur status, made her debut as a professional on English lawn tennis courts at Phyllis Court, this afternoon.

Lenglen was not the only tenins star who appeared here this afternoon by arrangement with Chas. B. Cochran, the theatrical and sports promoter. America was represented by Howard Kinsey who banged the balls about in a couple of exhibition games with Karl Kozeluh, the professional champion of France.

Lenglen was also partnered by Kozeluh in a mixed doubles match against Kinsey and—one other. This "one other" has been the subject of much conjecture since Cochran announced that he would introduce to England a woman professional who, in the opinion of no less an expert than the Hon. F. M. B. Fischer, who gave Lenglen the hardest game of her life. The promoter also said that he was prepared to issue a challenge on her behalf to meet any woman in the world for $5,000.

This much intrigued lawn tennis circles, although up to quite recently it was generally accepted that this wonder-player would hail from the United States. It is now understood, however, that she will be Fraulein Dora Koring, the 35-year-old German professional.

Fraulein Koring is also scheduled to play Lenglen in a single either today or on Saturday, when the Phyllis Court Club is staging another exhibition. But because the German player has not touched a racket for close to three years, Cochran's promise of a "hard game" is not expected to be fulfilled.

Fort Morgan, Colo., Paper Gives Sympathy

Evening Times Publishes Editorial Regarding Death of Miss Helen Dragoo.

The following editorial is from the Fort Morgan, Colo. Evening Times expressing sympathy to the families and immediate friends of Miss Helen Dragoo of Maryville and Charles McKnight of Fort Morgan, who were killed Saturday night in an automobile accident:

"A lot of sympathy goes out to the families and immediate friends of the young couple whose lives were so suddenly snatched out Saturday evening when their automobile overturned from a bridge and pinned them beneath the water. Sympathy might properly expressed to friends when any life passes out But the case at hand makes a special appeal for sympathy.

"The two lives who had reached only the youthful age of 24 years gave special promise of more than the usual career of success. They were just at the threshold of usefulness and stability. They had passed through the period of life that usually settles the course of the future. Youth who have the energy and ambition to go through high school and into college are likely to become the most useful and successful class of citizens. There isn't much concern for their future.

"The youth of the present day with careful parental training supplemented by the modern system of high school instruction, at 24 years of age is capable of accomplishing a great deal more than people a few generations ago were able to do at 30 years of age. This fact gives the youth of today several additional years in which to build up in whatever adventure it chooses. Then, too, the mortality of life has been lengthened greatly because of the advance in the science of health. The average life is longer today and is gradually on the increase as hygenics is better understood from year to year.

"It is impossible to estimate the value of life in its influence in the community. There is a vast difference in the individual values of respective lives from this standpoint. However, a valuation has been placed upon life from the economic standpoint. Statisticians have estimated the economic value of a life that is untrained. They have estimated a value of the life that has been given a grade education in the public schools. The additional value of a high school training has been estimated. Even these authorities have placed a valuation upon the average person who has been given a college training.

"There was a time when a human life was sold on the auction block at a nominal sum. Even today insurance organizations estimate the value of a hand, an arm, an eye, and even the life. But no attempt has been made to place a valuation upon the possible achievements of a young life.

"From the average walks of life today come the youth who head great orranizations, who become powerful executives, who wield great influence, who startle the world with sudden achievement through their daring and courage, who win the plaudits of nations and the whole masses of people. The youth that is unknown today may be carried on the shoulders of royalty tomorrow. No one would think of placing a valuation on youth from the standpoint of its possible achievement.

"The romantic thing and the beautiful thing is that this opportunity is open to youth anywhere. It may come from the humble home, it may come from the rural life, it may come from the city, it may come from obscurity, it may come from high circles. It is purely an individual matter.

"The two young lives taken out were on the door step of their career, parents, the community, and educational institutions had made their investment in them. What the average life time would have brought forth is only speculative but their families and friends had hoped for them just as hopes are entertained for all youth.

"The sympathy of the community goes out to these families and friends."

Bobbed Hair Requires 10,000 More Barbers

London, June 29.—Shingling and bobbing have created jobs for 10,000 additional barbers in England in the last three or four years, according to statistics just compiled by the British Hairdressers' Association. There are now more than 42,000 barbers and hair dressers in England compared with 32,000 a few years ago.

In 1914 one out of every five barbers died of consumption. This death rate has been greatly decreased since the war due to shorter hours that barbers are required to work, and to the healthier conditions prevailing in the barber shops.

San Francisco-Chicago Air Route Mapped Out

Planes will leave San Francisco daily at 7 a. m., arriving at Chicago at 5:45 a. m. the following day. The elapsed time is less than 21 hours because of the time zones crossed between the two cities.

Jungle Breath

© 1927 by NEA Service

By Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAS HAPPENED

To the queer little South American town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, a town fringed by dark, forbidding jungle, comes an elderly American, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, a chemist.

Nunnally registers at the ramshackle hotel and steps out on the balcony. A beautiful young girl drives past in a chaise, accompanied by a negro woman and a small child. To the American's amazement, she waves to him, then drives on. He sees two sinister looking men watch the girl, exchange mysterious signals, then follow her.

Another surprise is in store for him. In the barber shop, the barber, a strange dark man with an Oriental cast to his eyes, speaks to him. He then recognizes the barber as VILABA WEST, known to him as VILAK, a fellow American and former chemistry pupil. He asks Vilak what he is doing in Porto Verde. To his amazement, Vilak says he has sent for him, that he and his cousin, who was the young lady Nunnally had seen from the balcony, owned the Porto Verde Development Co., and were in need of some assistance in getting at the root of a mystery that had already cost several lives and threatened their own.

The barber business, Vilak explains, serves to conceal his real activities. In the midst of his explanations, word reaches him that another man, one of his cousin's foremen, had been murdered.

The barber business, Vilak explains, serves to conceal his real activities. In the midst of his explanation, word reaches him that another man has been murdered, and he and Nunnally hasten to the spot where the victim, TONY BARBETTA, one of his cousin's foremen, lies on the ground, still alive.

Barbetta seems to be in a strange sort of paralysis. He dies, after accusing Potts, and Vilak astonishes Nunnally by declaring his belief that Potts was not the murderer.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marbery. After a few minutes, Vilak demands of Elise what took place in her house that afternoon and she tells him that the rifles on her place have been stolen. Her overseer, Adolf Schwartz, advises her to leave the country.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER 8

Vilak made a quick tour of the building, then closely examined the door. "Good lock, all right," he murmured. "Open it, please."

The little German obeyed, exposing a white stone interior, filled with electric wire, storage batteries, detonators, the delicate, more expensive parts of machinery which might prove too much of a temptation to the natives if left in the ordinary warehouses. The floor was bare except for the drifting leaves inescapable in this region of superabundant vegetation.

But a tiny scrap of green, which to the old man seemed just another leaf, caught Vilak's eye. He picked it up and when the German's attention was concentrated elsewhere put it carefully in his pocket. They strolled outside again.

In a few moments they had left the puffing Schwartz, and were once more inside Elise's brilliant living room.

"Did you go to see Prentiss yesterday as you intended?" Vilak asked as he leaned over and caught a brilliant fly creeping dangerously close to a spider web in the corner. He tangled the insect's legs in the web an instant.

Elise watched him wonderingly.

"What are you doing that cruel thing for?" she protested.

"I'm being kind, not cruel," he retorted. "I am trying to show it the error of its ways and by demonstrating that webs are dangerous for it, save it from crawling to an unhappy end. But it won't learn. Watch."

He lifted it from the web and set it on the floor. In a moment it was again crawling toward the web, in another the spider had swooped down and before Vilak could prevent, slain it. "It's a cruel law, nature's law, the jungle law, or whatever you want to call it. And the closer we are as men to it so the more cruel are we. Spider kills fly, frog kills spider, little snake kills frog, big snake kills little snake, man kills big snake or another little man. Did you go to see Prentiss?"

She nodded. "After all, we are the only Americans here, and I felt like a beast for not trying to do something for him. As far as I am concerned he can have the land he's on for good. I won't dispute it."

"Did you see him?"

"Yes. . . . and no." She was silent a moment. "I shan't try again. . . . that you, with all your wisdom, can't seem to understand. A woman's as good as a man, as bad as a man, as brave as a man."

Vilak put a pellet of betel on his tongue and rose to go. "The harem doors now open wide, the foolish wives to foolish freedom stride," he quoted.

"Talk away, if sarcasm makes you feel more superior. But with all due respect to you it won't change my intention in the slightest. I'm going . . . must you insist on chewing that dreadful betel?"

"Sorry I must. And with equal regret I must also announce that you shall not come with us. Seriously," he said with finality as he neared the door. "I'm not in the slightest doubting your courage or questioning your intelligence, for which I have the highest admiration. I simply have a very strong conviction — fundamentally it may be based on prejudice. I admit— that whenever women have any connection with crime except as a motive, trouble quickly follows.

"I can't take you with me. Try to understand! And knowing your disposition I might add that if you attempt to follow, you'll be endangering all of us, mostly yourself. I'll be compelled to send you back just as you throw rocks at your dog who insists on following you down the road. Not because you don't love your dog, and wouldn't like to have him along, but because you know the chances are that he'll be killed by an automobile. Now please be sensible."

He pressed her hand gently, strolled to the door and returned with a bundle, part of which he gave to the old man, part of which he put on the floor at his feet. There are boots and gloves for you, Nanny," he said. "Get into them. And put your raincoat on now. I know you'll tell me it's hot but put it on anyway."

He helped the old man into his saddle, leaned in himself, and, waving a half-amused, half-troubled good-by to his cousin he stood peering after them, a delicate silhoutte against the barred door, set off to the road again.

They retraced their route until they neared the bridge which crossed the river. A red glow showed a few hundred yards down the railroad track. "Queer," said Vilak. "Never saw that before. Let's have a look at it."

They stepped their horses nearer and through the brush saw five or six torches burning brightly, by the light of which some twenty or thirty men were hurrying about pitching a tent. They were the customary motley of black, Indian, and half-breed, with an occasional surly individual who appeared to be white. They were clad in the nondescript clothing of the typical Brazilian laborer, here a once brilliant purple shirt hanging out over vivid green breeches, there a tattered strip of cloth which had been manufactured as an American suit of underwear.

Most were the dregs of their races, with cruel eyes and vicious, degenerate faces. The teeth of some of the Indians had been filed into sharp points. "Must be section hands," Vilak remarked. "Those in the States aren't the gentlest creature in the world but they can't hold a candle to the ones they get down here. The cream of the country. Wonder if the railroad sent them up on account of the flood. Think I'll find out."

They dismounted, stepped through the brush and reacher the open. In a little depression of the land a bright fire was burning. Nunnally looked at it. His wrinkled face became puzzled. "Er . . . why have they that . . . . er . . . yes . . . that?" he asked in a whisper. "Its hot tonight . . . very hot. And they're not using it to . . . er . . . melt anything. It's . . . singular . . . yes . . . er. . . . singular."

Vilak stared thoughtfully at the blaze. "Fires can be used for other things than heat," he answered. He bent down and drew something out of the hot cinders. This he held before the chemist. "Perhaps that, for instance. Mean anything to you?"

The old man's sleepy eyes narrowed behind their glasses. All he could see was what appeared to be a small bit of charred wood no different than the other pieces of branches which formed the glowing embers. He shook his head. "No . . . it . . . : er . . . means nothing . . . er . . . nothing."

Vilak tossed it back into the fire.

(To Be Continued)

Most were the dregs of their races, with cruel eyes and vicious, degenerate faces.

There is adventure ahead of Nunnally and Vilak. The night is filled with a thousand unseen dangers.

FRIENDS YOU CAN TRUST

Advertised products are your friends wherever you find them. You know them. And you can buy them with confidence—sure of honest value for your money. For they have stood the test of public scrutiny, they have been advertised and found worthy.

For advertising, after all, is a test—a trial by the fire of public aproval. Today no manufacturer would start advertising his products unless he knew they were sound and good. And if errors did creep in, he would be quick to correct them, for to hold business he must uphold the confidence advertising has created among millions of people for his wares.

Advertising brings protection to the consumer. It guarantees honest value. It sends quality up. The manufacturer who advertises builds up such a volume of sales that he gives far more in both quality and quantity than the non-advertiser can possibly do.

Seek out your friends—the advertised products. Favor the dealer who handles them. Look for them on the shelves. Watch for them in the show windows. They are the hallmarks of a good business house. They are negotiable guarantees of value. They are friends you can trust.

Advertised products are sometimes not the cheapest you can buy; but they are always the cheapest to own.

Burlington Junction

(By J. Howard Thompson)

There has arisen a new kind of thief over in Atchison County, says the Tarkio Avalanche. This new thief is none other than a ground hog, a mischievous little rodent, that inhabits this section of the country. It seems that one J. A. Kime while at work in the field hung his vest containing his watch in one of the pockets, on a limb near by while at labor, and when he returned to get it he found his watch gone. Knowing no individual would likely get it, he began to look about, in search for it, and discovered that near by was the den of the ground hog. In digging into the borrough of the animal, he not only found his watch, but found it still running. The punishment of death was administered to the thief after due process of trial by jury.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Tucker were host and hostess to a large company of friends and relatives last Sunday for dinner. It is needless to say that all present had a very enjoyable time. Those present as guests were Rev. and Mrs. J. Howard Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hunter, and two daughters, Myrtle and Grace, and son, Mark, all of Clarinda; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hunter and daughter, Maxine, also of Clarinda; Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Tucker of Council Bluffs, Mr. Tucker being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Tucker; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cole and son, Harry, of Graham, Mrs. Cole being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker; Miss Fern Fritz of Red Cloud, Neb.; Mrs. Rebekah Skeed of Clearmont, and Miss Mary Warner of near St. Joseph. J. C. Hunter is the brother of Mrs. Wesley Tucker, and Mrs. Skeed is a sister to Mr. Tucker. The afternoon was spent in social visiting, and taking pictures with the kodak.

Rev. J. Howard Thompson, the local pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church was in Fillmore and Amazonia Monday and Tuesday, and in Skidmore on Wednesday and Thursday of this week assisting the pastors of the two communities with the canvass for Missouri Wesleyan College. The campaign closes Friday night at midnight. The money is coming slowly and in small contributions. It does not now seem as if the condition of the campaign will be met.

Rev. and Mrs. J. V. Hawk of Skidmore were in town an hour Monday morning, the guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. Howard Thompson. They returned home after an hour's visit.

A new survey will be made for Highway No. 18, leading west from Burlington Junction, missing the dwellings in Cleveland. The crossing over the Wabash railroad will now be made one thousand feet west of the depot and will be much better than the other survey. District Engineer Sack of St. Joseph, acting for the highway, and the officials of both the Wabash and the C. B. and Q. railroads were here last week and finally settled the much disputed matter. The survey will soon be made and work will begin on the grading of the road bed.

Miss Hazel Rutherford, who teaches a Sunday School class in the Christian church took her class to the city park last week, Tuesday afternoon, and gave them a formal picnic. Each member of the class was permitted to invite a friend, and all came. Luncheon was served in the evening. All had a good time and very greatly appreciated the thoughtfulness of their teacher.

Robert Barber, jr., left last Friday for California, where he expects to make his home in the future, he having secured employment in that western state. For a number of years, Mr. Barber was employed in the Yaple Hardware store here, and relinquished his job only on account of G. L. Yaple's death last September. He will have a similar position in his new location. He has hosts of friends here who will wish him great success in his new field of activity.

Miss Frieda Crouse of Mound City is in the Missouri Methodist Hospital in St. Joseph, having recently undergone an operation for appendicitis. She was one of the teachers in our public schools last year, and has many friends here in this community who will hope for her early and permanent recovery.

The writer having finished his work in the Summer School at Cameron, is at home again and hopes to be a wee bit more regular with his semi-weekly letters to the Democrat-Forum and Tribune. He will be at home this week and next. While gone he will furnish the readers of the paper with at least a weekly article, giving a description of his observations and impressions. In the mean time let us be content to read the local happenings as they occur from time to time.

The pastor of the Methodist church reports an unusual day in services last Sunday. It took three figures to announce the Sunday school attendance, with eighteen fine hustling boys in the pastor's class, and a most splendid morning service of worship, with many strangers present. At night an unusually interesting Epworth League service to be followed with a full house to hear Miss Alma Corken of St. Joseph in one of her sacred readings. As a preliminary, the Misses Charlene Mildred Williams, Iola Graves, and Helen Arnold, gave readings, and Miss Catherine Fleming sang to the delight of all. The entire day's services were most favorably commented upon by the many who attended.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church will have full charge of the services next Sunday night, in lieu of the regular preaching services. They will show on the screen seventy-six slide pictures of the Berbers of North Africa. This will be intensely interesting, and will draw a large crowd of folks to see them. The service will begin promptly at eight o'clock. They are extending a most cordial invitation to the general public to attend this special service.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Daugherty and family entertained the Rev. and Mrs. J. Howard Thompson at a fish dinner at their beautiful country home, ten miles west of town, last Monday noon. The afternoon was spent very pleasantly in social visiting.

Charles Short purchased the Hagey property across the street northeast of the Methodist church last week for $550. The property consisted of the dwelling and seven lots and was sold at Sheriff's sale in Maryville. Mr. Short surely secured a bargain in the purchase. Mr. and Mrs. Malone with their son, William, have been occupying the property for some time and will continue to live there for the present at least.

Chicago, June 29. — Wheat moved within a narrow range and the trading was light on the Chicago board of trade today. There was no change in the cash market.

Corn at one time this morning had lost 2 cents but later recovered slightly. The cash market is unchanged.

Oats followed the tendencies of other grains and fell off early. The cash market held steady.

Provisions were about steady, showing a tendency to follow the grain market.

Kansan Says Necking Is Constitutional

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 29.—"Necking" is included in the constitution giving residents of the United States the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" so far as the sovereign state of Kansas is concerned. The favorable ruling was given by Wilmer B. Harms, assistant county attorney of Sedgewick county, who can find nothing on the statute books that makes spooning illegal even on public highways.

Anti-Horse Thief Association, patrolling county highways, have no authority to arrest any of the participants in "necking parties," Harms declares.

"The only way necking could be called illegal," Harms ruled recently, "is by calling it lewd and lascivious conduct. And I do not believe that by the farthest stretch of imagination a young man hugging or kissing his girl can be accused of that."

TO ORGANIZE FRIDAY NIGHT

CHAUTAUQUA BOARD WILL MEET AGAIN THEN.

NEW MEMBERS NAMED

Committees to Be Named for Program Starting August 11.—A Large Number of Guarantors.

A re-organization of the Maryville chautauqua board will be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the M. E. Church, South, for the purpose of electing officers and appointing committees to make arrangements for this year's chautauqua, which will be held here August 11-17.

A meeting of the board was held last night at which C. C. Collett, field manager for the Redpath-Vawter chautauqua system, was present.

An incomplete list of the local board that will have charge of the arrangements was given out this morning by the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, who is secretary of the board. It includes:

Roland Wray, L. G. Somerville and L. L. St. Clair, who were members of the board, are not here this summer, and two other persons have consented to take their places.

Mr. Collett left this morning for Tarkio to arrange for the chautauqua there, which will start August 12, the talent going from here to Tarkio.

Funeral Services to Be Conducted at 1 p. m. at Parent's Home by the Rev. M. McNamee, Tarkio.

Funeral services for Miss Helen Dragoo, who was killed early Sunday morning in an automobile accident near Fort Morgan, Colo., will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dragoo, 221 South Main street.

The Rev. M. McNamee, pastor of the M. E. Church in Tarkio, will conduct the service. Mrs. Bernhardt Bronson and Mrs. Don Martin will sing two selections, "Crossing the Bar" and "The Lord Is My Shepherd." The piano accompaniments will be played by Miss Genevieve Miller. The body will lie in state at the family home from 10 o'clock tomorrow morning until the hour of the service.

Mr. Dragoo and Mrs. Glen Gray of Tarkio, father and aunt of the young woman, arrived last night with the body. Philip Dragoo, a brother, who motored back from Fort Morgan, came this morning and was accompanied by Miss Lorence Candle of Fort Morgan, where Miss Dragoo was motoring to spend the week-end when she met with the fatal accident.

The body will be taken to Tarkio for burial. The pallbearers will include Raymond McCaleb of Tarkio, a cousin, and Raymond Lewis, Jim Lewis, Arthur Nicol, and Harley Bebout of Hopkins, and William Robbins of this city, all former school mates of Miss Dragoo.

Among out-of-town relatives and friends expected for the funeral are: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mowry, St. Joseph; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Shiflett, Mrs. Jesse McIntosh and Mrs. Ida Piggott, all of Meadville; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCaleb and son, Raymond, Tarkio; Mrs. Lon Wallace, Rosendale; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dragoo, Parsons, Kan.; Mrs. Fred Monroe and daughter, Helen Joy, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Monroe, and Mrs. Sam Robbins, Hopkins; and Mrs. Guy Arnold of Trenton.

The following in part is the Fort Morgan, Colo., Evening Times' report of the accident:

Death lay in waiting in the darkness along the Greeley-Fort Morgan highway Sunday morning for Miss Helen Dragoo, 23, of Maryville, Mo., a student at the Colorado Teachers college at Greeley, and Charles McKnight, 24, of Fort Morgan, who were drowned when their Dodge roadster broke through the railing of a bridge across an irrigation ditch two miles west of Masters, Weld county.

Wheels Above Water.

The car landed, wrong side up, in five feet of water with the four wheels just protruding above the surface. The bodies of the two were pinned beneath the auto and were not extricated until nearly two hours after the accident, it is believed.

McKnight had left Fort Morgan early Saturday evening to bring Miss Dragoo to Fort Morgan, where she planned to spend the week end with Miss Lorene Caudle, 519 Grant St.

The accident occurred on the return trip, two miles west of Masters, where the highway crosses the Bijou irrigation ditch which takes water directly from the Platte river.

Storm Blinds Driver.

At this point the road curves slightly in order that the bridge across the ditch may span it squarely. A sudden sandstorm had blown up and it is thought that McKnight, who was found at the driver's wheel, was blinded by clouds of sand and did not see the bridge. The roadster missed the bridge, tore off the south railing and plunged beneath the water.

Three Loveland men, A. E. Wilder, John Burnhardt and Oscar Coon, were the first to discover the tragedy. They arrived at the spot shortly before 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Part of the broken bridge railing lay in the road. One of the men got out to clear the road and discovered the overturned roadster in the water. The rear taillight, still above the swirling ditch current, still glowed.

McKnight Feared Trouble.

Help was summoned from the Andrew Mackey ranch nearby and from a camp of highway workers. Whitcomb Canatsey and Glen Warner of Ft. Morgan, friends of McKnight, arrived a moment later.

Before McKnight left Fort Morgan for Greeley he had said if he had not returned by 11 o'clock he would like to have Canatsey and Warner come to look for him as he "might have car trouble." It was because of this request that these two boys had driven 32 miles, fearing for McKnight's safety. Not until the roadster was raised were workers positive that the bodies were beneath it.

McKnight's watch had stopped at 12:30 o'clock, although it may have run for a time before water stopped it. Andrew Mackey who lives just west of the bridge said that the last car to pass eastbound passed at 11 o'clock. It was seen and heard by several members of the Mackey family who had left their beds because of a terrific sandstorm which had struck with sudden fury and which had frightened them. Mackey said the car was traveling rapidly, although there is a possibility it was not McKnight's car.

Skull is Broken.

A timber from the broken railing of the bridge had penetrated the radiator of the roadster. The top was crumpled, but otherwise the machine was not badly wrecked, those who examined it say.

Two slight cuts were the only injuries found upon Miss Dragoo's body. She had drowned. McKnight had a fractured skull and other injuries which would have caused death if he had not been pinned beneath the water, Coroner Schoen declared.

Schoen pronounced the accident unavoidable and announced that no inquest would be necessary.

McKnight's mother, who is confined to her bed by illness, is in a more serious condition because of the shock she received when informed at 4 o'clock Sunday morning of her son's death. Mrs. McKnight's brother, Wm. M. Campbell, 59 years old, died here March 15 when he took strychnine by mistake, thinking it was quinine.

Funeral services for McKnight were held at Fort Morgan Tuesday afternoon. The McKnight family formerly lived near King City, Mo.

Stoy Williams, Skidmore; T. R. Summa, Quitman; Monroe Clutter, Parnell; and S. H. Andrews, Mound City, were Maryville visitors today.

WHAT IS HOURLY NURSING?

It is a nursing service which is given by graduate registered nurses for cases of illness in homes where a full-time nurse is not required.

When Is This Service Useful?

When a doctor sends his hospital patient home he may be assured his written instructions will be carried out by the hourly nurse. Perhaps a bath, dressing, or hypodermic is all that is necessary and this can be done in a short time.

The obstetrical patient may go home from the hospital a few days earlier if an hourly nursing service is available to give morning care to mother and infant, and also preparing food for baby if necessary.

To the family in small apartments hourly nursing is a boon and a solution of the problem of housing facilities and meals for the nurse. With this hourly service it is possible to pay only for what one gets. Time is counted from the hour the nurse arrives in the home until the hour she leaves.

Service Charges for Hourly Nursing.

$1.50 for the first hour or any fraction thereof; 50c for the second hour or any fraction thereof. Services limited to 3 hours per visit between the hours of 7:30 a. m., and 10 p. m. Taxi fare charged after 10 p. m.

A Few Suggestions for Hourly Nursing.

Care of new born—Follow-up hospital cases—Douches—Enemas—Irrigations — Hot packs — Hypodermics—Baby feeding.

I am now engaged in this nursing service.

SLOW LEAKS IN TUBES

Many tires are ruined by slow leaks in tubes. The leak will be so slow that it can not be found when the tube is taken out and placed in the testing tank, but leaks enough when in the tire under high pressure to keep the tire running soft and in time causing the walls of the tire to break.

A NEW DEVICE

Recently placed on the market will find any leak no matter how slow. We have purchased one of these tube testers and will be able to send out every tube repair job 100% perfect, saving our customers hundreds of good tubes that heretofore had to be junked. If you have a tube with a slow leak and a new valve core won't stop it, then we can find the leak and repair it in a few minutes. We make no additional charge in using this device.
